Next Boss of U.S. Medics Gives His Medicare Views

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Milford O. Rouse combines professional skill with sharp business sense.

He made that clear in his first news conference since his selection as the president-elect of the American Medical Association.

He said he prefers, under medicare, to give the 65-or-over patient an itemized account which the patient can take care of himself. Then the patient will be reimbursed, he said, under the new insurance system for the elderly.

"I'm not your insurance broker," he said in capsuling his attitude Thursday. "I'm your doctor. I'm trying to help you."

Dr. Rouse said he won't try to block medicare.

But, he said, "I can see no way to do it (handle medicare) except on a basis of direct billing."

Under the medicare program, if a doctor bills direct, he may post any charge he chooses, leaving the patient seek reimbursement from an "intermediary" government agency which will reimburse for only 80 per cent of what it considers "reasonable." The patient would absorb the difference. If the doctor sends his bill to the "intermediary," he will get 80 per cent of the "reasonable" charge and could collect no more than the other 20 per cent from the patient.

Dr. Rouse was born in Jacksonville, Tex., son of a Baptist minister, teacher and author. He went to high school in Vernon and once worked for a newspaper there, the Vernon Record.

Dr. Rouse earned his M.D. at Baylor University in 1927 and went into practice in Dallas, Tex., a year later.

He will be installed as the AMA's 122nd president next June at the annual convention in Atlantic City.

Kennedys Off On Float Trip Down River

JACKASS FLATS, Idaho (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and 22 others set out today for a Fourth of July float down the "River of No Return."

There was even a football—a seemingly necessary item on any Kennedy outing—in the gear when the party flew from Sun Valley to start the holiday trip down the middle fork of the Salmon River in central Idaho's wilderness. The football got a good workout last Fourth of July when the Kennedys floated the Yampa and Green rivers in Colorado and Utah.

The 100-mile run down the rapid-filled Salmon may take four or five days, Kennedy said he wasn't sure. But his oldest daughter, Kathleen, 14, said firmly, "four days."

The big party will include Kennedy, his wife Ethel and seven of their nine children, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., his wife and daughter, mountain climber James Whittaker, his wife and two sons, and the wife of singer Andy Williams. Three Kennedy nieces and nephews and two teen-age friends of the Kennedy children, plus family friend Lemoyne Billings of New York, also will be along.

The Salmon River run—in rubber boats steered by huge sweeps or oars on each end—is called by veteran river guides the "wildest boat ride in America."

'We Would Rather Reason than Fight'

U.S. To Bomb Until Peace Comes

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — President Johnson has served notice on Hanoi that the United States is in Viet Nam to stay — until an honorable peace can be negotiated.

And as long as Communist leaders refuse to talk peace, Johnson warned, U.S. air raids will continue in North Viet Nam.

"Let me be absolutely clear," the President told a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner Thursday night. "I want the leaders of North Viet Nam to know exactly where we stand."

"We would rather reason than fight," he said. "We are using our power in Viet Nam because the Communists have given us no other choice."

Johnson climaxed a fast-paced tour Thursday of Nebraska and Iowa — a trip with heavy political overtones — by asserting that this country has never run from its duty nor skipped out on an ally, and does not intend to start now.

Vowing that as long as he is President "we will stand firm," Johnson said as long as the North Vietnamese "persist in their aggression against South Viet Nam, we will resist that aggression.

"As long as they carry on the war, we will persevere. They cannot wear us down. And they cannot escape paying a very high price for their aggression."

If the North Vietnamese leaders "will only let me know when and where they would like to ask us directly what can be done to bring peace to South Viet Nam," Johnson said, "I will have my closest and most trusted associates there in a matter of hours."

"There need be no agenda," the President added. "There need be no previous understanding of what will and will not be discussed. There need be no commitments on either side. There need only be a room and a table and people willing to talk respectfully."

"This is the one way to stop the fighting," Johnson said. "It is one way to end the killing in the South and the bombing in the North."

In other Viet Nam developments Thursday: The United States told the U.N. Security Council of the bombings of the oil facilities near Hanoi and Haiphong and said the attacks were necessary to slow down Red military infiltration. U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg again repeated the U.S. proposal that the Geneva conference be reconvened "to reaffirm and revitalize the Geneva agreement of 1954 and 1962."

About 36 Quakers staged a silent sit-in in the Senate gallery to protest Congress' adjournment for the July 4th holiday at what they said is a time of crisis in Viet Nam. Police arrested six men and six women who refused to leave more than two hours after the Senate adjourned.

The President, in speeches here and in Omaha, expressed in stronger terms than ever before his own determination to persist and prevail in Viet Nam.

He reminded both audiences in impromptu statements that 44 states voted for him two years ago and that he and he alone "has the horrifying, terrible" (Continued on Page 2)

U.S. Pilots Rip Another Depot

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. pilots smashed another North Vietnamese fuel depot today as they continued the air campaign to keep fuel from the tanks of trucks hauling men and supplies to the Communist in South Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman said Navy pilots put all their bombs "right on the target area" in an attack on the Dong Nham storage depot 15 miles northwest of Haiphong. He said it contained an estimated 14,000 metric tons of fuel.

On the ground, American infantrymen pushed a badly battered Viet Cong unit back toward the Cambodian border after an ambush that backfired on the enemy 60 miles north-west of Saigon.

A U.S. spokesman said American counterattacks, artillery barrages and air assaults killed nearly 300 of the enemy in the An Loc area. By late afternoon contact was broken and the 271st Viet Cong regiment was reported streaming toward its Cambodian haven a short distance away.

Three U.S. fighter-bombers accidentally jettisoned antipersonnel cluster bombs on a Vietnamese village today, killing five Vietnamese civilians and wounding 41, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said American helicopters rushed the wounded to hospitals. The three F100 Supersabre jets were returning to the Bien Toa base 15 miles north of Saigon after a strike. The spokesman said following normal practice they attempted to jettison their unused bombs in a dumping area set aside for this purpose but the bombs did not drop until after they pulled away from the area.

Today was the eighth day of raids in the past two weeks on fuel storage facilities in North Viet Nam. Since June 3, attacks have been made on about 14 different such storage sites in North Viet Nam, particularly around Hanoi.

Despite considerable adverse international reaction to the bombings on the doorstep of Hanoi and Haiphong Wednesday, the United States went ahead with its campaign to reduce the flow of aid to the Viet Cong in the South. The spokesman said the Skyhawks, Panthers and Intruders from the carrier Constellation left a column of black smoke rising high into the sky from the Dong Nham fuel depot.

During another attack, over the North Vietnamese Panhandle north of the 17th Parallel, enemy fire shot down an Air Force F105 Thunderchief. The pilot bailed out into the Gulf of Tonkin northwest of Dong Hoi, and a rescue helicopter picked him up 40 minutes later.

It was the 273rd American plane reported lost over North Viet Nam.

'Shabby Record' In Ohio Is Hit

WAYNESFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' Republican administration took another verbal lashing Thursday night by William L. Coleman, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

Coleman, the former Democratic state chairman, attacked the administration's "Wonderful World of Ohio" slogan by contrasting it with what he called a "shabby record."

He told the Auglaize County Democratic Club that the state ranks 43rd among the 50 states in support of public schools, that Ohio students pay more tuition in state universities than students in any other state and that Ohio ranks 45th in per capita state funds for higher education.

French Troops Quit NATO

Allies Shape Up Under New Plan

PARIS (AP) — Business as usual — as much as possible — was the word today as France quit the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's military commands.

President Charles de Gaulle withdrew slightly more than 2,000 officers and enlisted men from integrated Allied military command posts. France also declared that as of today its 72,000 troops in West Germany are no longer controlled by NATO.

The French withdrawal from NATO military headquarters here and elsewhere in Europe was conducted discreetly. The French flag still flew alongside the flags of the other NATO nations outside the Allied command post near Paris. De Gaulle says France remains a part of the North Atlantic Alliance although French troops are no longer under its command.

Adjusting to the new situation, officers at the NATO command posts continued their planning for joint military action to defend Europe in case of attack. But their work was complicated by uncertainty over what they could expect of France in case of an attack.

France's previous contribution to the European shield, available for immediate retaliation, was the two divisions and two tactical air force squadrons she has had stationed in West Germany. The West German and French governments are now negotiating on the future status of those forces.

As part of De Gaulle's plan to pull France out of the military side of the 17-year-old alliance, he has also ordered all Allied headquarters and foreign bases to get off French soil by next April.

The move will involve about 28,000 U.S. troops at NATO headquarters and U.S. bases. An advance contingent of Americans began evacuating the base at Evreux Thursday in three C130 transports for a new home in England.

4th of July Bell-Ringing, Safety Tied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Strict enforcement and a "Bells for Freedom-Safety" program are the hope of officials for holding the July 4 holiday weekend traffic toll to a minimum.

Statistics set the expected death toll at 33 for the period starting at 6 p.m. Friday and ending at midnight Monday, the same as estimated for the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

But only 15 died on Ohio highways over the Memorial Day weekend because, authorities said, motorists heeded warnings that traffic law violators faced arrest and drove with care.

Added to the July 4 weekend safe driving plea is a campaign headed by State Treasurer John D. Herbert at the request of Gov. James A. Rhodes for "the ringingest and most patriotic Fourth of July ever held in Ohio."

"Bells for Freedom, Bells for Safety" call for church, school, public building and privately-owned bells to be rung at 6 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday as a "drive safely" reminder.

At 2 p.m. EST Monday they will toll again for several minutes to denote the approximate hour when the Declaration of Independence was signed 190 years ago.

Massive New Medicare Program Now Effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The massive medicare program providing hospital insurance for all 19 million of the nation's senior citizens went into effect today, hailed by President Johnson as "a blessing for older Americans."

Swinging into operation with the program was an optional doctor-bill insurance plan for which 17.3 million elected to pay $3 a month.

The two programs were brought into being at 12:01 a.m. in one of the biggest operations in medical history.

Doctors and patients reserved any prognosis, but the President pronounced it a success in advance. He called it "a test of our willingness to work together."

By Public Health Service count, 6,714 institutions — or 91 per cent of all the country's 7,374 general hospitals with roughly 93 per cent of the beds — opened their doors for the insured care of any American aged 65 or over.

The nonparticipating hospitals were mainly in the South. Most were barred from medicare payments by their failure to comply with the no racial discrimination provisions of the Civil Rights Act.

To make extra sure that no one dies for want of access to a participating hospital, the government ruled Thursday night that federal hospitals — veterans', military and others — may be used for critically ill medicare patients in emergencies.

Previously it had been announced that any other nonparticipating hospital could be used — private or public, with medicare picking up the bill — if a bed in a participating hospital could not be found to avert the threat of death "or serious impairment of the health."

Despite the serious gaps in participation — only 25 per cent of Mississippi hospitals were in the pool — administration aides were jubilant over the generally high participation nationwide.

"We've done far better in the South than we had dared to hope a month or two ago," one Public Health Service official said.

"And more hospitals will be desegregating when they begin to feel the pressure from unhappy local residents, both white and black," he added.

Twenty-three states entered medicare with 100 per cent participation by their qualified hospitals, and some others came close to that.

In his medicare's-eve statement, President Johnson said he had no doubt of the success of the twin medicare programs if these three things happen:

"If hospitals accept their responsibility under the law not to discriminate against any patient because of race."

"If doctors treat their patients with fairness and compassion. I feel sure that most doctors do not plan to drive hard bargains with needy patients."

"If old patients cooperate in scheduling treatment and do not demand unnecessary hospital and medical services."

Lost Sandal Brings 4 Deaths

BONNER, Mont. (AP) — A woman dropped her sandal in the Blackfoot River Thursday and three youngsters drowned trying to retrieve it.

John Fitzpatrick 28, of Twin Creeks, Mont., who dived in to rescue the children, also drowned.

The victims were at a family reunion at McNamara's Landing about 20 miles east of Missoula.

The children were Rose Ann Elledge, 15, Deer Lodge, Mont.; Terry Pesanti, 12, Twin Creeks, Mont., and Michael Fitzpatrick, 8, of Andover, Mass. All four bodies were recovered.

Mississippi Ends Era of Prohibition

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi, the first state to ratify national prohibition in 1918, today ended the last statewide ban on liquor in the United States with an ironic touch.

One bootlegger—a man of unknown years who goes by the name Red Hydrick—is flatly disgusted with the change. Hydrick is probably the best-known bootlegger in central Mississippi.

Although liquor became legal at 12:01 a.m., it won't really be legal until a county votes itself wet—which will take at least 16 days.

Red Hydrick sat in his bootlegger shack on the banks of the muddy Pearl River in Rankin County across from Jackson late Thursday night, surveyed the bare, unpainted wooden shelves, two empty bourbon bottles, and rasped:

"I've been in this building 27 years and I've gone through hell. There has been a lot of money taken in the front door of this shack, but through the hazards of this racket, there has been a lot go out through the back door."

Hydrick, like all the other illegal sellers of bonded booze, was closing up.

2 U.S. Ambassadors Recalled from France

PARIS (AP) — Both the American ambassador to France and the American ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have been summoned to Washington for consultations, U.S. officials said today.

HEAD START OPENS TUESDAY — Autos transporting children to classes in the Head Start program beginning Tuesday will be designated by red signs on each side to warn other motorists. Newell Stevenson Jr. (center), social worker with the local program, reads an auto for use by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Warnock (right and seated in car), Route 1, New Holland. They will transport children to the Williamsport Elementary School beginning Tuesday. The federal subsidized program also will be held at S. Court St. School in Circleville, Pickaway Twp. School and Ashville Elementary School. Classes are for pre-school age children throughout the county. The program is sponsored here by the Pickaway Community Action Organization, Inc.

Laborites Split on U.S. Viet Policy

LONDON (AP)—A wide-open split developed in Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party today as the government refused a demand from legislators of all parties for an emergency debate on the Viet Nam war.

Angry left-wing members of Wilson's own party were openly threatening to balk at administration's entire legislative program because of the prime minister's supports for the American campaign in Viet Nam.

More than 100 Laborites and Liberals presented a motion in Parliament Thursday night demanding that the government denounce U.S. policies in the Southeast Asian country.

Dr. Rouse said he won't try to block medicare.

But, he said, "I can see no way to do it (handle medicare) except on a basis of direct billing."

Under the medicare program, if a doctor bills direct, he may post any charge he chooses, leaving the patient seek reimbursement from an "intermediary" government agency which will reimburse for only 80 per cent of what it considers "reasonable." The patient would absorb the difference. If the doctor sends his bill to the "intermediary," he will get 80 per cent of the "reasonable" charge and could collect no more than the other 20 per cent from the patient.

Dr. Rouse was born in Jacksonville, Tex., son of a Baptist minister, teacher and author. He went to high school in Vernon and once worked for a newspaper there, the Vernon Record.

Dr. Rouse earned his M.D. at Baylor University in 1927 and went into practice in Dallas, Tex., a year later.

He will be installed as the AMA's 122nd president next June at the annual convention in Atlantic City.

Kennedys Off On Float Trip Down River

JACKASS FLATS, Idaho (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and 22 others set out today for a Fourth of July float down the "River of No Return."

There was even a football—a seemingly necessary item on any Kennedy outing—in the gear when the party flew from Sun Valley to start the holiday trip down the middle fork of the Salmon River in central Idaho's wilderness. The football got a good workout last Fourth of July when the Kennedys floated the Yampa and Green rivers in Colorado and Utah.

The 100-mile run down the rapid-filled Salmon may take four or five days, Kennedy said he wasn't sure. But his oldest daughter, Kathleen, 14, said firmly, "four days."

The big party will include Kennedy, his wife Ethel and seven of their nine children, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., his wife and daughter, mountain climber James Whittaker, his wife and two sons, and the wife of singer Andy Williams. Three Kennedy nieces and nephews and two teen-age friends of the Kennedy children, plus family friend Lemoine Billings of New York, also will be along.

The Salmon River run—in rubber boats steered by huge sweeps or oars on each end—is called by veteran river guides the "widest boat ride in America."

Wheat Crop 'Fairly Good'

Early Freeze Causes Mixed Ripening

With harvesting now under way, Pickaway County's wheat crop for 1966 shows indication of being "generally good," according to Richard Bowers, manager of Pickaway Grain Co.

Bowers said wheat delivered to his firm "looked pretty good with about an average yield." He added, however, that some produced in the county will be far below average. This occurs almost every year, he said, due to the variable amounts of rainfall and other conditions that effect the growing season.

Wheat faced some difficulty here, Bowers said, due to the late spring freeze and heavy frost. This setback during the growing season means some green grain has been mixed with the ripened product.

The green heads, Bowers noted, is enough to cause a higher price paid to growers.

FARMERS whose crops were stunted by the freeze are faced with the problem of harvesting before all the grain has fully ripened. In most cases, if they waited until all the wheat reaches maturity, early ripened grains would fall to the ground and be lost.

Test weight of wheat delivered has also been "fairly good," according to Bowers.

The first load was delivered to the local grain company earlier this week by William J. Richards of Wayne Twp.

News of World in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says it still favors a summit meeting of American heads of the states although the man who initiated the proposal, former Argentine President Arturo U. Illia, has been ousted from office.

Marshall Wright, press officer, said Thursday that "the United States sees no reason why the consultations and the preparations for such a meeting should not continue, and a number of Latin-American governments have expressed the same view."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Highway Patrol was increased by 25 men today, bringing it theoretically to the strength authorized by the Ohio General Assembly.

Actually, the Patrol is some 50 men below strength. Patrol officials blame a large turnover caused by competition from outside jobs.

With the increase today, the Patrol's authorized strength is 850 men, plus 90 assigned to the Ohio Turnpike Commission for use exclusively in turnpike patrol. The increased strength law also added 25 patrolmen last July 1.

SODUA, Mich. (AP)—A five-state cherry growers cooperative told processors today they could have its 1966 crop for 14 cents a pound, more than triple the price of last year.

Last year's price was 4.8 cents a pound.

The cooperative represents growers in Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

B. T. Freeman, cooperative manager, said processors have until 5 p.m. of July 7 to accept his group's tonnage offered them on a firm contract basis.

OSARK, Ala. (AP) — A bus loaded with migratory workers from Orlando, Fla., crashed into an embankment nine miles north of here early today and at least 11 persons were reported killed.

The Ozark Funeral Home reported 11 dead, all Negroes, were brought to the home.

The mishap occurred about 1:30 a.m. when the bus veered off U.S. 231, went down a slope and smashed into a bank.

A four-man medical team from nearby Ft. Rucker, Ala., helped care for the injured. The vehicle was an old school bus.

J. P. McCourt of the local patrol post is in charge of the inspection.

Two Youths Hospitalized After Mishap

Two Laureville youths were admitted to Berger Hospital Thursday following a one-car accident one mile south of Tilton.

David Vancuren, 16, driver of the car, suffered a fractured left wrist. Keith Thomas, 18, a passenger, sustained possible neck and back injuries and lacerations.

Vancuren told Pickaway Sheriff Dwight Radcliff he lost control of the vehicle while rounding a curve. The auto was demolished, officers said.

Two Men Bound To Grand Jury For Defrauding

Two men, charged with defrauding an innkeeper (Prairie Lanes), were bound to the next term of the Pickaway County Grand Jury under $300 bond by acting municipal judge Allen Berger.

David Ellyson, Columbus, and Maurice Graves, Chillicothe entered pleas of innocent to charges filed by David Olney, manager of the bowling lanes.

The men were charged specifically with ordering and consuming alcoholic beverages when they had no intention of paying. The drinks were valued at $1.70.

$2.1 Million Embezzler Of Bank Granted Parole

ALDERSON, W. Va. (AP)—Mrs. Burnice Geiger, released on parole today after serving five years for embezzling $2.1 million from her father's bank in Sheldon, Iowa, said she had "no definite plans" except to settle someplace in Iowa.

She would not disclose exactly where she plans to live but said she did not intend to return permanently to Sheldon, where her huge embezzlement caused the Sheldon National Bank to fail.

Good behavior reduced her reformatory term by two days for every day served of her 15-year sentence.

"I feel lovely," the 64-year-old widow replied to a newsman who told her she looked lovely. She said she "learned something every day" during her term in the Federal Reformatory for Women, a tree-shaded preserve which resembles a girls school more than it does a penal institution.

No friends or family were present for her release, but she said she hadn't expected any. Mrs. Geiger has no children. Her husband died shortly after she went to prison.

She said she had no visitors during her five years in the reformatory but corresponded regularly with her parents in Sheldon. Her father is now 89 and her mother is 84.

Six on Berger Treatment List

Six persons were on Berger Hospital's emergency list for Thursday. All were treated and released.

Joe Disbennett, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Disbennett, Route 2, Laureville, received lacerations to his chin in a fall from his bicycle.

Iva Hines, 48, Route 1, Stoutsville, was treated for lacerations to her right foot, caused by glass.

Cindy Mehl, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mehl, 303 Huston St., received lacerations to both of her ankles while riding her bicycle.

fying duty of making the final decision.

The President argued that those who challenge his determination are encouraging the Communists to "hold out a little bit longer."

"In Hanoi tonight are men who believe they have more patience in the bank than we do," Johnson told the Democrats. "They read our polls. They listen to our debates and they say to themselves: 'If we only wait long enough.'"

Besides the speeches here and in Omaha, the President visited two Iowa farms and inspected a barge at Omaha carrying the 5-millionth ton of American wheat to India.

A part of his speech in the capital of this corn belt state was devoted to assuring farmers that their net income and purchasing power has risen sharply since the Democrats took office in 1961. He called it "a successful farm policy unparalleled in the world."

After the speech here, the President and wife Lady Bird flew to the Johnsons' Texas ranch for the July 4th weekend. They were joined there by daughter Luci and her fiancée, Pat Nugent.

Stock Mart Hit by Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally picked up steam in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

The advance was launched Thursday afternoon after three sessions of sharp losses.

Today's sharp gain was made despite the usual caution that precedes a long holiday weekend. The market will be closed Monday, July 4.

The turnabout came when the market was approaching its mid-May lows and indicated that a support level may have been found.

Motors, steels, rubbers, aircrafts, electronics, utilities, nonferrous metals, chemicals, rails and airlines advanced.

Key issues posted gains ranging up to 2 points but most advances were fractional.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had risen 2.0 to 315.9 with industrials up 3.7 rails up .4 and utilities up .9.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 9.13 at 879.23.

U.S. Starts Fiscal Year; Will Ink Be Black or Red?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government begins a new fiscal year today with one segment of Congress and the Johnson administration still at odds over whether it will end in red or black ink.

All agree that fiscal 1966, which ended Thursday, rolled into the red — the only difference of opinion is by how much. Estimates range from $2.5 billion to $2.9 billion.

For the new year the administration is sticking with its earlier estimate that spending will outstrip net tax receipts by $1.8 billion.

But a source on the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation said the fiscal 1966 deficit should be close to the $2.5 billion the committee had predicted earlier in the year.

The Treasury Department still estimates last year's deficit at between $3.4 billion and $3.9 billion, but one government source said it could drop below $3 billion — which would make it the lowest deficit in six years.

At issue, in both the old and new fiscal years, is the amount of taxes the government collects.

Last January, the deficit was estimated at $6.4 billion based on spending of $106.4 billion — the first spending program in history of more than $100 billion — and net tax receipts of $100 billion.

The government ran a $1.2-billion surplus during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1960, but since then deficits have ranged from $3.4 billion to $8.2 billion.

Higher than expected tax collections and more frequent tax deposits by corporations of money withheld from paychecks prompted the better than anticipated showing during the past year.

Large corporations must now deposit withheld taxes with the Treasury twice monthly instead of once. This began during June.

Soviet City Is Jolted By 525th Earthquake

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Asian city of Tashkent was hit today by the 525th earthquake since April 26.

More than 300,000 persons, over a fourth of the city's population of 1.1 million, have been left homeless by the quakes. Casualty figures are incomplete.

The new quake was moderate, between 5 and 6 on the 12-point scale used in the Soviet Union. There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

and resulted in an added $1 billion in tax receipts during the month.

Generally, economists say the booming economy with its relatively low unemployment rate and larger paychecks spurred the over-all increase in tax collections.

These factors, the Treasury said, should raise net tax receipts to $102.5 billion or possibly to $103 billion for the fiscal year just ended. The House-Senate tax committee estimates $103.9 billion.

For the new fiscal year, the Treasury estimated net receipts at $111 billion and the committee staff at $116.2 billion. Spending is estimated by the administration at $112.8 billion.

Good behavior reduced her reformatory term by two days for every day served of her 15-year-sentence.

"I feel lovely," the 64-year-old widow replied to a newspaperman who told her she looked lovely. She said she "learned something every day" during her term in the Federal Reformatory for Women, a tree-shaded preserve which resembles a girls school more than it does a penal institution.

No friends or family were present for her release, but she said she hadn't expected any. Mrs. Geiger has no children. Her husband died shortly after she went to prison.

She said she had no visitors during her five years in the reformatory but corresponded regularly with her parents in Sheldon. Her father is now 89 and her mother is 84.

The President argued that those who challenge his determination are encouraging the Communists to "hold out a little bit longer."

"In Hanoi tonight are men who believe they have more patience in the bank than we do," Johnson told the Democrats. "They read our polls. They listen to our debates and they say to themselves: 'If we only wait long enough.'"

Besides the speeches here and in Omaha, the President visited two Iowa farms and inspected a barge at Omaha carrying the 5-million ton of American wheat to India.

A part of his speech in the capital of this corn belt state was devoted to assuring farmers that their net income and purchasing power has risen sharply since the Democrats took office in 1961. He called it "a successful farm policy unparalleled in the world."

After the speech here, the President and wife Lady Bird flew to the Johnsons' Texas ranch for the July 4th weekend. They were joined there by daughter Luci and her fiancée, Pat Nugent.

Power Firm, Union Reach 2-Year Pact

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A two-year contract with the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. was ratified Thursday night by members of Local 1466 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, ending a strike threat.

The old contract expired at midnight, and negotiations on the new one, affecting workers in Nelsonville, Coshocton, Jackson, Columbus and other communities, have been under way for a number of days. The union represents about 1,174 workers in 24 Ohio counties.

The new contract includes provisions for a 12-cent hourly pay increase immediately for those who receive at least $3.88 per hour and 10 cents for those earning $2.23 to $2.58 hourly. On July 1, 1967, an additional increase ranging from nine to 14 cents will go into effect.

Stock Mart Hit by Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally picked up steam in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

The advance was launched Thursday afternoon after three sessions of sharp losses.

Today's sharp gain was made despite the usual holiday weekend. The market will be closed Monday, July 4.

The turnaround came when the market was approaching its mid-May lull and indicated that a support level may have been found.

Motors, steels, rubbers, aircrafts, electronics, utilities, nonferrous metals, chemicals, rails and airlines advanced.

Key issues posted gains ranging up to 2 points but most advances were fractional.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had risen 2.0 to 315.9 with industrials up 3.7 rails up .4 and utilities up .9.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 9.13 at 879.23.

U.S. Starts Fiscal Year; Will Ink Be Black or Red?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government begins a new fiscal year today with one segment of Congress and the Johnson administration still at odds over whether it will end in red or black ink.

All agree that fiscal 1966, which ended Thursday, rolled into the red — the only difference of opinion is by how much. Estimates range from $2.5 billion to $2.9 billion.

For the new year the administration is sticking with its earlier estimate that spending will outstrip net tax receipts by $1.8 billion.

But a source on the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation said the fiscal 1966 deficit should be close to the $2.5 billion the committee had predicted earlier in the year.

The Treasury Department still estimates last year's deficit at between $3.4 billion and $3.9 billion, but one government source said it could drop below $3 billion — which would make it the lowest deficit in six years.

At issue, in both the old and new fiscal years, is the amount of taxes the government collects.

Last January, the deficit was estimated at $6.4 billion based on spending of $106.4 billion — the first spending program in history of more than $100 billion — and net tax receipts of $100 billion.

The government ran a $1.2-billion surplus during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1960, but since then deficits have ranged from $3.4 billion to $8.2 billion.

Higher than expected tax collections and more frequent tax deposits by corporations of money withheld from paychecks prompted the better than anticipated showing during the past year.

Large corporations must now deposit withheld taxes with the Treasury twice monthly instead of once. This began during June.

Soviet City Is Jolted By 525th Earthquake

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Asian city of Tashkent was hit today by the 525th earthquake since April 26.

More than 300,000 persons, over a fourth of the city's population of 1.1 million, have been left homeless by the quakes. Casualty figures are incomplete.

The new quake was moderate, between 5 and 6 on the 12-point scale used in the Soviet Union. There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

and resulted in an added $1 billion in tax receipts during the month.

Generally, economists say the booming economy with its relatively low unemployment rate and larger paychecks spurred the over-all increase in tax collections.

These factors, the Treasury said, should raise net tax receipts to $102.5 billion or possibly to $103 billion for the fiscal year just ended. The House-Senate tax committee estimates $103.9 billion.

For the new fiscal year, the Treasury estimated net receipts at $111 billion and the committee staff at $116.2 billion. Spending is estimated by the administration at $112.8 billion.

Medicare Plan In Effect Now

He concluded: "I have no doubt for the future. I believe that July 1, 1966, marks a new day of freedom for our people."

The government has pooh-poohed forecasts that a tide of elderly patients will swamp the hospitals. Hospital administrators generally agree that there will be some difficult local situations but that they can handle the expected average increase of not more than 5 per cent in the patient load.

This judgment was reinforced as each recent day brought scores of new hospitalizations into compliance. Officials expect that many more will meet both the medical care standards and the civil rights test during July.

The states which already had 100 per cent certification of hospitals for compliance as of mid-July were Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming. The territories of Guam, Samoa and the Virgin Islands also had full participation.

At the other end of the scale were Mississippi with 33 of 133 hospitals certified for rights compliance, South Carolina with 46 out of 93, Louisiana with 73 out of 144 and Georgia with 107 out of 176.

Florida had 159 complying out of 188, Virginia 84 out of 119, North Carolina 138 out of 166 and Tennessee 138 out of 163.

If nonparticipating hospitals are used for emergency patients, Robert M. Ball, Social Security director, has ruled, Medicare will pay only for the period of emergency — not for any care given after it becomes possible to discharge the patient or transfer him to a participating hospital.

And if an emergency admission to a federal government hospital is sought, Ball said, the decision is up to the medical officer in charge and is subject to the availability of beds.

The presidential appeal to doctors not to "drive hard bargains with needy patients" apparently was prompted by a resolution passed Tuesday by policy-makers of the American Medical Association. The AMA recommended that doctors should bill patients directly for Wiretapping violates Nevada law.

The FBI testified that the wire tap was installed to seek information about persons believed to be diverting profits to criminal activities.

NW Ohio Milk Price Is Extended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The U. S. Department of Agriculture Thursday issued an order extending the fluid milk (Class 1) pricing provisions in the Northwestern Ohio Federal Milk marketing order beyond their June 30 expiration date. The order sets minimum prices to dairy farmers, but does not regulate prices consumers pay.

The action also extends through July the present fluid milk differential set by the general amendment of federal orders on April 10. At that time a seasonal price drop of 22 cents was prevented in markets such as northeastern Ohio, where fluid milk is priced on a seasonal schedule.

This change in pricing was proposed by dairy farmers at a hearing June 1 in Stony Ridge, Ohio. Pending appropriate amendment of the order based on the June 1 hearing, the order issued today will provide price alignment with nearby markets and thus help assure adequate supplies of milk for the northwestern Ohio area, officials said.

New Degree Is Offered Between Masters, PhD

WASHINGTON (AP) —Something new has been added to the world of graduate education — an intermediate degree between the master's and doctor of philosophy.

Yale University was the first to announce the new degree early in May. Yale calls it a master of philosophy degree, or M. Phil. for short.

The University of Michigan soon followed. It will award a similar recognition for those who have gone beyond the requirements of a master's degree, but have not completed the formal dissertation required for a Ph.D.

Michigan calls it a candidate certificate, meaning it is awarded to candidates for Ph.D. Later Michigan is expected to convert this to candidate degree.

The Ph.D. is the highest degree a university graduate school can award. It carries with it the cachet of putting "Dr." before the name.

It takes a minimum of three years to win a Ph.D. in any field, and often four or five years — or longer — including the all-important dissertation, or lengthy research paper.

Yale's M. Phil. degree will take two years of study, and will become effective for students entering graduate school in the fall of 1968.

Michigan is a member of the Big Ten of Midwest universities, and the deans of graduate schools of the other Big Ten members already have approved in principal the idea of an intermediate degree.

A similar doctor of arts degree was proposed by a special committee at the University of California at Berkeley, which spent 10 months studying the problems of student unrest there.

But it has met opposition at Berkeley by faculty members who say it would undercut the value of a Ph.D.

Dean Stephen H. Sparr of the Michigan Graduate School said "there is great need for this degree. The candidate's certificate is proposed to give not only recognition to the many students who have completed all their requirements for the Ph.D. ex-

Irresponsibility

It is shocking to learn from congressional investigators that publicity was the purpose of the XB 70 flight that killed two test pilots, injured a third and destroyed two aircraft worth more than a half billion dollars.

The supersonic XB 70 had not successfully completed a troublefree flight. Yet it was used to perform in a tight flying formation with four other aircraft at speeds exceeding 1,000 miles an hour. At such speeds, variations of a few feet can — and did — prove fatal.

The cost of this stunt is incalculable. Twenty-one years' experience had placed Joe Walker in the first rank of test pilots. He is dead. Also killed was Maj. Carl Cross, a veteran of extensive service in Viet Nam. Another of the nation's outstanding test pilots, Maj. Al White, was injured.

Replacement of XB 70 will be long and costly — and at a time when this country is engaged in competition with other nations trying to develop a supersonic passenger transport.

Middle-Age Is Habit-Forming

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — What is middle age?

To many it is the longest, darkest tunnel of life, a barren stretch between first and second childhood.

They think of it as a time enjoyable only to those who take a masochistic delight in acquiring an ulcer or watching their hair turn gray or fall out.

Actually, of course, it isn't all that dreadful. It's more like swimming in a cold lake — shocking to the system at first, but not too bad after you get used to it.

Middle age, like smoking, is habit-forming. Once you get the habit, you find it hard to shake. What can you give it up for that is better?

An odd thing about being middle-aged is that you notice it in others before you do yourself. But make no mistake about it, man, you're in the silver years if —

You like Elvis Presley better than the Beatles because he wears a more sensible hair cut.

You can remember when Shirley Temple wore curls.

In your wardrobe there is still at least one double-breasted suit with wide lapels.

You realize you need new glasses but insist you're not ready for bifocals.

On a picnic you'd rather eat watermelon with a fork than pick it up in both hands.

You buy executive-length socks now because anklets make you feel sloppy.

The waiters at your favorite restaurant never have to ask what you want for lunch. They automatically bring you what they know you're supposed to have.

You hesitate to acquire any new disorders because there isn't room in your medicine cabinet for any more pills.

If a strange girl winks at you on the bus, you wonder if she's got a clinker in her eye.

Every time you hear a band play "September Song" you feel haunted the rest of the evening.

Everything teen-agers do today seems to you illegal, immoral or unnecessary.

When lured out on a dance floor, you start to put your arm around you partner's waist instead of waving your hands wildly and stomping around like an Indian on the warpath.

You brood more about your pension than the possibility of promotion.

You can read a column like this with a smile — instead of silently blubbering inside.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Some low-pressure economic areas could affect the business weather in the second half of 1966. But high-pressure areas built up over the last five and a half years are still most likely to set the economic climate for some months to come.

Depressed areas the experts watch are housing, the stock market, auto sales uncertainty, credit squeeze on consumers and business firms, higher interest rates, growing wage demands, worsening balance of payments deficits and, above all, the spreading effect of a costlier Viet Nam War—both in money and manpower—on the civilian economy.

These could moderate the pace of the economy the rest of this year. But the momentum built up in major segments is still so strong that most economists, in government or in business, see the general trend still upward with many new records all but assured by year's end.

The strong points are:

—Defense spending upturn which will be increasingly translated into new orders, leftier production and more jobs and paychecks.

—High and rising employment. This means larger totals of personal incomes and corporate revenues. This all but guarantees more consumer spending by year-end, and further ordering of materials and machinery.

—Business expansion plans. These call for more spending in the last six months of 1966 than in the like period of 1965. Neither the credit squeeze, labor shortages, materials scarcities nor government restraints seem likely to modify the total spending by very much.

Thus all three props of the economy—consumer, business and government spending—should be sturdy.

Caution has come back into style, however, after the speculative exuberance of the early months of the year. Jitters in the stock markets affect the attitude of many citizens who do no trading at all. Consumers also are worried by the chance of a tax increase, by the pinch of rising cost of living, by the credit pinch when they engage in the great American pastime of buying on the cuff.

How the 1967 model autos will catch on also will have a wide psychological repercussion. Public confidence has close links to auto industry trends.

Some business leaders are fearful that the big climb in profits may be over, or nearly so. Profits may be squeezed, both by the government's frowns on price increases and by growing labor demands that could raise production costs. Other storm centers they watch are the government's attitude toward mergers, its stepped-up antipoverty drive, and a possible tax increase.

Whether consumer demand is reaching a saturation point in some fields is debatable. Caution, or shaken confidence, could delay some buying, but most consumers seem bent on raising their living standards still higher—if they can get the necessary credit.

Raid on Private Enterprise

By John Chamberlain

Not so long ago the Post Office decided to get out of the banking business. The reason for this was that it was duplicating saving and insurance services that were being more efficiently performed by private institutions. But now, quite perversely, Postmaster General Larry O'Brien is making a determined pitch to put the Post Office into competition with free enterprise in another field that is currently being served quite adequately by private business-men.

Specifically, the Post Office is seeking Congressional authority to double the weight limits of objects carried in its parcel post business. It would also more than double the cubic-foot content. The original reason for the parcel post was to help country people avoid costly trips to town for objects that could be conveniently carried by postal employees. The more bulky and heavier "freight-type" objects were left to the common carriers, who were the heirs to the tradition of the Pony Express and the old Wells-Fargo freight forwarding business. Practically speaking, this now means the Railway Express Agency, which has been maintained ever since the Nineteen Twenties by the railroads to serve some twenty thousand communities both in the United States and abroad. The REA boasts that it carries anything "from an emerald to an elephant," and it has been doing its job responsibly and well, and at no cost to the taxpayer.

Larry O'Brien does not say that the REA and smaller private shipment companies haven't been doing a good job. He simply wants more business for the Post Office of a type that would, as he thinks, permit it to increase its own net revenue. Whether putting the Post Office into the business of carrying parcels weighing double their present limit would add significantly to net revenue, is, of course, debatable. But even if the government could make a lot of money by going deeper into the freight business it has no business destroying an existing private enterprise that is already satisfying its customers. The argument that a government enterprise needs added earning capacity could be used to justify almost any tax-subsidized raid on private businesses. Think of the income the government could grab if it were to take over General Motors!

There is, of course, more than meets the eye in the proposed bill to divert bulky parcel shipments from private carriers to the already over-burdened Post Office. The fight, actually, is between two segments of the private enterprise community. On the one hand, the big mail order houses stand to benefit by Mr. O'Brien's proposed change. Local merchants would lose. As things are now constituted, you can't get a stepladder or a lawnmower delivered to you by mail. In the normal course of events a person will go to a local shopping center for such objects, and the merchant will arrange for delivery if necessary. But if lawnmowers or ladders could be moved by government parcel post, the mail order companies would, in effect, be getting a big lift from the government. Cynics have observed that Larry O'Brien who was one of the most competent members of President Kennedy's famed "Irish Mafia," is not unmindful of the desirability of political support from mail order tycoons. The small merchants can be left to the Republicans.

The fear of the Railway Express Agency is that it will be forced out of business if Mr. O'Brien has his way in Congress. If nobody cares about railroad stockholders it should be observed that some labor leaders are on the REA side of the fight. C. L. Dennis, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees, AFL-CIO, has said that "along with REA's destruction will be the jobs of 40,000 employees, many of whom have devoted years of their lives in helping to develop the carriers' service. There is involved more than $200 million in annual wages . . . REA Express now uses the services of some 71 standard railroads and of approximately 21 shortline railroads . . . also 37 U. S. domestic air lines."

Presumably, any displaced personnel could be hired by the Post Office. Mr. O'Brien has promised as much. But they would lose all seniority benefits. And you and I, as the taxpayers, would be responsible for the wages of all those added government employees.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

When can a patient who has suffered a heart attack again resume normal activity. My husband, who is a relatively young man of 42, has been urged to return to work. He is terrified and seems to be more of an invalid now than when he was in the hospital.

Mrs. S. B. Georgia
Dear Mrs. B.: The yardstick that is used to decide when a person can go back to work is not a rigid one. The severity of the heart attack is, of course, one of the decisive factors.

I assume that by now the electrocardiograms are well within normal range and have indicated to the physician that your husband's heart reserve is normal. Despite this he seems to be an invalid.

The disease he now is suffering from is a major illness called Fear.

Your husband has recovered from his illness, but actually is living in terror that he will soon be smitten by another attack.

Recovery from his illness cannot be considered as complete until he is ready, psychologically and physically, to resume activity. He now is narrowing his world of activity by surrounding himself with the security of his bed and his own living room.

The personality of a sick adult is not too different from the behavior of an infant for whom there is constant protection and catering for their needs to survive.

Your husband is still an invalid, incapacitated by anxiety to the same degree that he was incapacitated by a heart attack. He is now a chronic heart invalid and will remain so until he is encouraged to take his place as a normal functioning human being.

Psychological support and assurance are indispensable to his total rehabilitation. You, his wife, cannot be the only person to give him his encouragement.

There are professional guidance counselors, psychologists and psychiatrists who can combine their efforts with his physician and with his family to accomplish the object of returning him to good health.

Your husband will find comfort in his own progress and will establish his own limitations if he is not too forcefully urged to return to activity. When he gains new confidence in himself and understands that he is not constantly threatened by another heart attack he will once again take his place as a dignified human being who has completely recovered from his illness.

Swimming pools must be barricaded against unsupervised toddlers and young children.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN ERRATIC lady driver in Richmond ignored a red light completely and smacked a brand-new convertible amidships. She was out of her car bellowing before the echo of the crash had died away. "Why don't you keep your eyes open?" she demanded. "You're the fourth car I've hit this morning."

Marvin Kitman, in "Barbed Wires," tells how Robert Benchley, scandalously late in providing a piece for the Christmas issue of a famous magazine, turned in phony alibis every day for weeks via collect telegrams to his outraged editor. One day he wired, "Am taking care of my sick mother," another said, "Am judging orange blossom carnival," and another, "Am starring in a movie with Greta Garbo." The editor's patience was finally exhausted. He wired Benchley—also collect—"Gather you haven't done the piece. You're fired."

Presumably, any displaced personnel could be hired by the Post Office. Mr. O'Brien has promised as much. But they would lose all seniority benefits. And you and I, as the taxpayers, would be responsible for the wages of all those added government employees.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

When can a patient who has suffered a heart attack again resume normal activity. My husband, who is a relatively young man of 42, has been urged to return to work. He is terrified and seems to be more of an invalid now than when he was in the hospital.

Mrs. S. B. Georgia

Dear Mrs. B.: The yardstick that is used to decide when a person can go back to work is not a rigid one. The severity of the heart attack is, of course, one of the decisive factors.

I assume that by now the electrocardiograms are well within normal range and have indicated to the physician that your husband's heart reserve is normal. Despite this he seems to be an invalid.

The disease he now is suffering from is a major illness called Fear.

Your husband has recovered from his illness, but actually is living in terror that he will soon be smitten by another attack. Recovery from his illness cannot be considered as complete until he is ready, psychologically and physically, to resume activity. He now is narrowing his world of activity by surrounding himself with the security of his bed and his own living room.

The personality of a sick adult is not too different from the behavior of an infant for whom there is constant protection and catering for their needs to survive.

Your husband is still an invalid, incapacitated by anxiety to the same degree that he was incapacitated by a heart attack. He is now a chronic heart invalid and will remain so until he is encouraged to take his place as a normal functioning human being.

Psychological support and assurance are indispensable to his total rehabilitation. You, his wife, cannot be the only person to give him his encouragement.

There are professional guidance counselors, psychologists and psychiatrists who can combine their efforts with his physician and with his family to accomplish the object of returning him to good health.

Your husband will find comfort in his own progress and will establish his own limitations if he is not too forcefully urged to return to activity. When he gains new confidence in himself and understands that he is not constantly threatened by another heart attack he will once again take his place as a dignified human being who has completely recovered from his illness.

Swimming pools must be barricaded against unsupervised toddlers and young children.

Try and Stop Me

AN ERRATIC lady driver in Richmond ignored a red light completely and smacked a brand-new convertible amidships. She was out of her car bellowing before the echo of the crash had died away. "Why don't you keep your eyes open?" she demanded. "You're the fourth car I've hit this morning."

Marvin Kitman, in "Barbed Wires," tells how Robert Benchley, scandalously late in providing a piece for the Christmas issue of a famous magazine, turned in phony alibis every day for weeks via collect telegrams to his outraged editor. One day he wired, "Am taking care of my sick mother," another said, "Am judging orange blossom carnival," and another, "Am starring in a movie with Greta Garbo." The editor's patience was finally exhausted. He wired Benchley—also collect—"Gather you haven't done the piece. You're fired."

Step by Step, Viet Nam War Gets Hotter

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

When 46 U.S. warplanes struck North Vietnamese oil complexes close to Hanoi and Haiphong, the war in Viet Nam reached a new stage of intensification that has been building for a period of five years.

"The price of the war has just gone up," a Pentagon officer in Washington commented Wednesday. "I don't know what you call this besides an escalation."

It was a far cry from five years back. Then, Americans scarcely noticed when President John F. Kennedy sent 100 jungle fighters to serve as advisers to a South Vietnamese army fighting a Red insurgency. Since then, a remote jungle conflict in a land little known to Americans has become probably the most controversial foreign war in U.S. history.

Those who noted the slight "escalation" — the word was not current then — in President

Kennedy's step probably were reassured when Lyndon B. Johnson then vice president, commented during a visit to Viet Nam that "if we furnish the support, they will furnish the manpower."

Even three years ago, in May 1963, when Buddhist troubles were about to ignite a political explosion in Saigon, little public attention was paid to the situation there.

But as early as 1962, Washington had admitted to having 685 military "advisers" in Viet Nam, while reports circulated that the total was closer to 4,000. American pilots flew combat missions with Vietnamese airmen, ostensibly to train them.

In January 1963, Americans learned from Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, that there were 12,000 U.S. military personnel in South Viet Nam, and within six months the number reached 40,000.

As the Buddhist crisis grew, threatening to benefit the Viet Cong Communists, so did U.S. concern. President Kennedy likened Viet Nam to the first in a line of dominoes. If Viet Nam fell, so would other Asian nations.

Despite this concern, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, after a visit to Viet Nam in October 1963, told President Kennedy it was "their judgment that the major part of the U.S. military task can be completed by the end of 1965."

The Diem regime fell but this was overshadowed by the assassination of President Kennedy.

The U.S. commitment in Viet Nam grew constantly. By year's end there were 17,000 military advisers there.

U.S. casualty figures began to filter home, small at first. Then, in August 1964, came the first big "escalation." After Communist gunboats attacked a destroyer of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Tonkin Gulf, the Americans retaliated with air strikes at gunboat bases in North Viet Nam.

The time was critical. The Viet Cong had nearly won their war. In February 1965 the United States launched an air assault on North Vietnamese targets and stepped up the tempo steadily from there on.

A month later, in March 1965, the first U.S. combat troops landed on Vietnamese soil. Two U.S. Marine battalions stormed ashore at Da Nang, and with the Marines came tanks, artillery and a helicopter squadron. The Marines were assigned to "in depth defense" of Da Nang. That implied combat operations against the Viet Cong in the nearby countryside.

Ohio Welfare March May Be Duplicated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 10-day "Walk for Decent Welfare" that ended here with a massive rally at the Statehouse may be only the start of other demonstrations.

Encouraged by sympathy

meetings in major cities across the country, spokesmen for Columbus welfare marchers hashed out plans late Thursday for a nationwide organization that would seek boosts in welfare payments.

"That rally at the Statehouse is only the beginning, and not a culmination," said Bernard Wohl of Columbus, associated with the South Side Settlement House.

He said representatives from cities in Ohio, Chicago, Boston and Washington discussed statewide and national goals but nothing specific came out of the meeting.

"The Ohio Steering Committee for adequate welfare meets in Cincinnati July 14 and we hope we can take a positive step then," Wohl said.

Some 25 of the marchers met in hour-long conference with Gov. James A. Rhodes and other state officials to press their case prior to the rally.

The governor promised to consider their demands but declined to say when he would reply, "to all of the requests here."

Specifically, the group wants Rhodes to call a special session of the legislature to boost welfare payments from $33 to $45 a month for each dependent child.

Mrs. Marian Hall, a march leader, said similar demonstrations will be held in her home town of Akron, and Toledo, Cincinnati and Cleveland, if necessary, to get action.

An estimated 1,000 demonstrators, both white and Negro, joined the last three miles of the march that began in Cleveland, 155 miles away.

Frazier Reams Jr., of Toledo, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, was one of Thursday's marchers and rally speakers. Other speakers included comedian Dick Gregory, Democratic State Sen. Frank King, who is also president of the Ohio AFL-CIO and Democratic State Rep. Carl Stokes, a Negro who narrowly missed election as mayor of Cleveland.

Welfare march spokesmen told Rhodes they want him to tap a $28 million state surplus for higher poor relief payments and join in pleas for Congress to provide more money for Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and other federally-assisted welfare programs.

Welfare Director Denver White estimated it would cost $44 million a year to meet the requests.

Natalie Wood's Price Now Is $750,000 per Film Plus

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is Natalie Wood in a film worth $750,000 plus a percentage of the gross returns?

"Is anyone worth that much?" she replied quizzically.

MGM must think so. The company is plunking out that amount for her services as a comic kleptomaniac in "Penelope." The fee is a new high for her, but she seems undazzled.

"Yes, it's a lot of money," she admitted, "but it also seemed like a lot of money when I was 13 and making $1,000 a week under contract to Fox."

Whether she was worth her salary then or now is a matter of film economics, which are even more muddled than the normal kind. Chances are, her price will rise to even more stratospheric heights. The reason: Natalie Wood is virtually the only young American film actress who can handle drama, comedy and musicals with skill and is an apparent box office draw.

Natalie arrived for lunch in the MGM commissary wearing a bridal gown designed by Edith Head for "Penelope." It was the first time during the film she had eaten in the studio cafe; she usually remains in her dressing room.

Yet there is nothing reclusive about her. Elusive, yes. Says a press agent for one of her films, "Natalie has the knack of talking a lot while saying little."

As noted above, she also uses the device of answering an intrusive question with a question: "How's your love life?" "How's yours?"

She possesses a glassy professionalism that makes you realize she knows her business. That's only natural; she has appeared in 23 films since her debut in "Tomorrow Is Forever" at the age of 5. She will be 28 next month.

Concerning the longevity of her career, she commented: "I was never a child star. I played important roles in big pictures but I was always the daughter of the star."

"I think perhaps I had an easier transition to more grown-up roles because I wasn't firmly identified as a child star. Those who were had difficulty being accepted in adult roles."

Army Unit's Panther Mascot Is 'Retired'

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Staff Sgt. Black Jack Argo, was described by his commanding officer as noted for "sinking his teeth into any problem," has retired.

Sgt. Argo, a 150-pound black panther, was mascot for an Army unit shipped out of Ft. Lewis, Wash. He was turned over to a zoo here.

Army officials report that the sergeant once was busted to private, for growling at a commander.

John Yoder, superintendent of schools for the past year, said last Tuesday that he would resign at next week's board meeting. Twenty-six other teachers or administrators also have said they will leave the system.

School Fuss At Martins Ferry Eyed

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio (AP) —The Junior Chamber of Commerce here says it will form a citizen's committee to study the city's school situation.

The action came Thursday after the Professional Rights and Responsibilities Commission of the Ohio Education Association recommended Wednesday that an independent citizen's group be formed to seek settlement of a dispute between the board of education and classroom teachers.

Teachers here had demanded a meeting to discuss educational problems, salaries and other matters. The teachers contend the board has refused to meet with their representatives.

The board meets Tuesday night and the OEA report probably will be a prime topic.

Two U.S. Marine battalions stormed ashore at Da Nang, and with the Marines came tanks, artillery and a helicopter squadron. The Marines were assigned to "in depth defense" of Da Nang. That implied combat operations against the Viet Cong in the nearby countryside.

More Marines arrived in April, bringing Leathernecks in Viet Nam to 8,000. In June, the U.S. Strategic Air Command threw B52 bombers into the war for the first time. Flying about 2,200 miles from Guam, the eight-engine jets dropped 500 tons of bombs on the Communist D Zone, 25 miles northeast of Saigon. And in July, President Johnson announced he would send another 50,000 Americans to fight the Communists. By Christmas of 1965 there were 180,000 U.S. troops in the theater, exclusive of the 7th Fleet. The Americans already had counted more than 1,000 dead.

A pause at year's end, as in the spring, was aimed at persuading North Viet Nam to approach a peace-talks table on less than all-or-nothing conditions. The pauses bore no fruit and intensification continued.

Defense Secretary McNamara announced toward the end of 1965 that "we have stopped losing" the Viet Nam war.

In January 1966, a fact-finding team headed by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., came back from Viet Nam. It cautioned that the fighting would escalate toward general war on the Asian mainland if peace efforts should fail, and that chances of a negotiated settlement were "very slim." It noted that Viet Cong manpower continued to increase despite the casualties inflicted by U.S. firepower.

On March 2, 1966, McNamara announced that U.S. military strength in Viet Nam was 215,000. Four weeks later, it was 230,000, and by May, 255,000. Reports circulated that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, had asked for more troops to bring the total to 400,000 by the end of the year.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's latest statements on the American role in Viet Nam weren't new — he had said it all before — but they were unyielding and kept open a grim window on the future.

Critics of the war and his handling of it have been on his back for months but he didn't bend an inch to mollify them. In his speeches in Omaha and Des Moines Thursday he said the United States would see this war through.

But in explaining this country's involvement in the present struggle he raised the prospect of American involvement in other Viet Nams, bigger or smaller, around the world in the future.

This was not the first time he had indicated that.

"We are obligated," he said, "to help those whose rights are threatened by force."

"If one government uses force to violate another people's rights, we cannot ignore the injustice, the threat to our own rights, and the danger to world peace."

He explained the case of South Viet Nam.

The North Vietnamese are trying to deny the South Vietnamese the right to build their own nation, the South Vietnamese asked U.S. help, and Johnson said: "Only if we have abandoned our respect for the rights of other people can we turn from their plea."

In a speech more than a year ago Johnson said approximately the same thing: "Around the globe, from Berlin to Thailand, are people whose well-being rests, in part, on the belief that they can count on us if they are attacked."

And at the end of his Omaha talk Thursday he added this: "There can be only one decision in Viet Nam. We shall see this through. We shall persist. We shall succeed."

"There are many nations, large and small, whose security depends on the reliability of our word and our power, the word of the United States must remain a trust men can live by and live with and depend on."

Johnson, known to believe he has laid out his views on Viet Nam repeatedly, had remained relatively quiet in recent months as the critics battered away at him.

The fact that Thursday's talk was just a rehash of what he has said before would bear out his belief that he has already fully presented this government's case.

He probably decided further explanation was needed because just the day before he ordered the bombing of the Communist oil depots around Hanoi and Haiphong in North Viet Nam.

This, too, was a repetition, but in tactics. Earlier this year, after ordering the resumption of bombing North Viet Nam following a 37-day lay-off, he held a news conference to explain it.

There's no doubt his critics get under his skin. He may start to make a speech from a prepared text that says nothing unpleasant about his critics.

Then he thinks of them, gets overheated, and as he goes along adds some thoughts that were not in writing. It happened Thursday at Omaha when he departed from the written speech to complain about the critics:

"Sometimes I almost develop stomach ulcers just listening" to some of the people who say he's "troubled, confused, and frustrated" by the war.

Ohio Welfare March May Be Duplicated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 10-day "Walk for Decent Welfare" that ended here with a massive rally at the Statehouse may be only the start of other demonstrations.

Encouraged by sympathy

meetings in major cities across the country, spokesmen for Columbus welfare marchers hashed out plans late Thursday for a nationwide organization that would seek boosts in welfare payments.

Welfare march spokesmen told Rhodes they want him to tap a $28 million state surplus for higher poor relief payments and join in pleas for Congress to provide more money for Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and other federally-assisted welfare programs.

Welfare Director Denver White estimated it would cost $44 million a year to meet the requests.

Reams told the Statehouse crowd he stood on a statement asserting that the state's $28 accomplished "slaying your payments."

Wohl said the march was to show Ohioans what it means to live on welfare.

"We managed to debunk some of the myths" about welfare chiselers, he said. "Many of the people we talked with really don't understand the situation."

Another march spokesman, James Klink of Marion, said "welfare clients should be given the right to work and earn. This is a walk of desperation."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

These Guests Need a Hotel

DEAR ABBY: We have a room which has a big, comfortable double bed. We had a couple to visit us for a week and when we showed them their room, the man said, "I haven't slept in a double bed in years! At home we have twin beds."

His wife gave him a dirty look so he kept still. We would have offered them our bedroom, but we have a double bed, too. After they went home, we heard from a mutual friend that they didn't enjoy their stay with us because they aren't used to sleeping together.

Must we exchange the double bed for twin beds to accommodate people like that?

HOSTESS

DEAR HOSTESS: No! Offer your guests what you have. If the accommodations don't meet with their approval, introduce them to someone who specializes in catering to guests: Conrad Hilton!

DEAR ABBY: I am a not so young bachelor who had the misfortune of falling in love with a married woman. I have no desire to steal her from her husband, but I would like to leave her everything I have, which is a considerable sum. In your opinion, would this hurt her reputation in any way? I would not embarrass her for the world.

Her husband is hardworking, but he doesn't have much. She is a sweet woman with two nice children. I would like her to have an easier life and her children to be assured of their educations. I have no relatives to leave anything to. No one in our town is aware that we even knew each other.

THINKING OUT LOUD
DEAR THINKING: Your reasons for wanting to leave everything to this woman are benevolent, and I see no reason why you should do so.

She could be "embarrassed" if the inheritance came as a surprise and gossip resulted. Talk it over with her first, and then consult your lawyer for the best way to handle it.

DEAR ABBY: How can you tactfully get out of letting some one borrow your wedding gown and veil? I suppose I sound very selfish, but I want to keep them in good condition and I have heard of girls who have let friends wear their gowns and they got them back ruined.

The girl who has asked to borrow mine is not a relative. In fact she isn't even a close friend, but we work together and I will have to see her every day. I hate to lie.

NAMELESS
DEAR NAMELESS: Why lie? Tell her the truth. But don't expect the wouldbe borrower to be delighted with your refusal.

God's Right to Command

THE BASIC RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN GOD AND MAN

Scripture—Exodus 20:1, 2; Leviticus 18:1-5; Hosea 11:1-4; John 14:8-15.

By R. H. RAMSEY

WITH today's lesson we begin a series examining Christ's interpretation of the basis of all Jewish and Christian morality, the Ten Commandments. Throughout His ministry our Lord's teachings dealt directly or indirectly with God's law as given to Moses, and from time to time He was called upon to interpret it in the light of His own teachings. This does not mean that Christ abrogated the ancient moral law of the Hebrews. How could He? He was an orthodox Jew and the Mosaic code was the basis of His life. Certainly Christianity has had an effect upon the Decalogue and other Old Testament ordinances. It has deepened their significance by moving from the mere prohibition of external acts to an emphasis on purity of thought and motive; and giving man a better motive than fear of God for keeping His law: love of God.

The preface to the Ten Commandments as set forth in Exodus is a compelling beginning. "God spake." He had something

God's Right to Command

THE BASIC RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN GOD AND MAN

Scripture—Exodus 20:1, 2; Leviticus 18:1-5; Hosea 11:1-4; John 14:8-15.

By R. H. Ramsey
WITH today's lesson we begin a series examining Christ's interpretation of the basis of all Jewish and Christian morality, the Ten Commandments. Throughout His ministry our Lord's teachings dealt directly or indirectly with God's law as given to Moses, and from time to time He was called upon to interpret it in the light of His own teachings. This does not mean that Christ abrogated the ancient moral law of the Hebrews. How could He? He was an orthodox Jew and the Mosaic code was the basis of His life. Certainly Christianity has had an effect upon the Decalogue and other Old Testament ordinances. It has deepened their significance by moving from the mere prohibition of external acts to an emphasis on purity of thought and motive; and giving man a better motive than fear of God for keeping His law: love of God.

The preface to the Ten Commandments as set forth in Exodus is a compelling beginning. "God spoke." He had something of God, it is insufficient to be law-abiding out of fear. Christ added the condition of love, and men came to see that if they truly loved the Lord, they would keep His commandments. The passage from Leviticus assigned to our lesson opens with God's assertion of His absolute supremacy; and a reminder to Israel of the fact that He had entered into a covenant with them. He leaves no room for dispute of His right to impose law of Israel's obligation to obey it, of His power and determination to enforce whatever He commanded. We would do well to remember this also. The foundation of all life is the fact of God's existence and God is the foundation of our faith.

In Hosea we find some of the most tender, heart-warming glimpses into the character of God to be found in the Old Testament. Sometimes he used the figure of husband and wife to describe the relationship of God to His people. His metaphor we will use today is that of a father and son. As a loving to say, and in case people had forgotten who He was, He reminded them: "I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage."

Note that at Sinai God did not remind the people that He is the Creator of the earth and Lord of the universe. Rather He portrays Himself as the liberator and deliverer of Israel. He has chosen them, not vice-versa; He has given them freedom and they, in return, will give Him righteousness and worship.

God has created man and made a covenant with him. It is His right to command and administer His creation. Because He is God and man is His creation, man was bound out of fear of the retribution of an omnipotent God—to act in accordance with His will. Until the coming of Christ there was no other foundation of man's obedience to God's commandments.

Jesus introduced the higher motive of love. Even though the commandments are deeply rooted in the perfect character father trains his child to walk, lifting him and carrying him when he grows weary, so did the Lord with His people Israel. Disregarding the powerful nations of the earth at that time, God chose a weak and despised people, a people without history or country, to be His son, leading them with cords of compassion and binding them with bands of love.

God's right to command goes far beyond the thought that because He loves His children and cares for them He has the right to expect their filial obedience.

Up to this point we have been considering God's law and word from the standpoint of God Himself. In the Gospel according to John, Jesus reverses our thinking and conditions our keeping of the law on our love for God. "If ye love me, keep my commandments." Those who fear God and keep His commandments out of that fear are wise indeed. But the Christian has an even better reason for keeping God's law: love for God the Father and Jesus Christ His Son.

Iron-ton Escapees

Back in Custody

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Howard Jenkins, one of two fugitives from the Iron-ton jail surrendered to police Thursday a few hours after his companion turned himself in.

The other man, George Murphy, 23, Iron-ton, returned to jail about 10 p. m. Wednesday.

Jenkins, 22-year-old resident of Pigeon Hollow, Ohio, telephoned police about 3:45 a. m. today and told them he could be picked up at the home of a friend.

They broke out of jail Tuesday along with James Cline, 22, Ashland, Ky., and Donald Jenkins, 24, Pigeon Hollow. Cline and Jenkins were arrested Wednesday by an Ashland patrolman, who made a routine license check of the car they were using and found that it had been stolen.

Boy Had No Driver Permit; Defense: He Had No 'Car'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Juvenile Court Judge John J. Toner is withholding judgment in the case of a 12-year-old who was caught joyriding without an operator's license and, as far as defense counsel is concerned, without a car.

Judge Toner said Wednesday he would withhold his ruling to give defense attorney Wyatt C. Brownlee time to file a brief to support his argument that it takes more than four wheels and an engine to make a car.

No car, no violation, Brownlee contends.

Center of the controversy is a souped-up soap box derby racer built by the 12-year-old. The youth installed a modified, four-horsepower lawnmower engine and took his racer out for a spin.

When Parma police spotted him in the street a block from his home April 19 they ordered him over to the curb. Police said the youth stopped his racer by dragging his feet.

The officers had the vehicle towed away by a private garage.

Ridiculous, the boy's father snorted. "Why make a federal case out of something like this?"

Why couldn't they have just given the motor a kick or removed the spark plug and chased the boy home with a warning?" the father asked Toner.

Judge Toner countered that the boy in his racer was a menace.

The father not only is faced by the court action but has been notified by the garage owner that he will have to pay $6 towing fee plus $1-a-day storage. The car—or whatever it is—is still at the garage.

White, Negro 'Varmints' Bring Curfew in Georgia

CORDELE, Ga. (AP)—For the second time this year racial troubles have beset the citizens of this South Georgia town. Almost every citizen was affected by the strict curfew the city commission clamped on this town of about 11,500 following violent clashes between Negroes and whites.

The curfew, from 8:30 p. m. to pitched gun battle between whites and Negroes Tuesday night.

Earlier this year, many citizens became enraged when, during a civil rights rally at the courthouse demonstrators pulled the U. S. and Georgia flags from the flagstaff. The U. S. flag was ripped in the incident.

Officials say they are puzzled at the turn of events. "I just don't understand it," Police Chief T. J. McMurray said.

McMurray and other city officials said movies, restaurants and other public accommodations were desegregated without incident some time ago.

"Two years ago, we hired three Negro policemen," McMurray said. "They worked out fine. We also have three Negro women on the force, working at school crosswalks." He said he has 15 policemen in all.

Richard H. Folger, assistant city manager, estimated that 70 per cent of those employed by the city are Negro.

He said all schools in the county have been desegregated under a plan approved by the federal Office of Education. Asked about the violence of this week, Folger attributed the cause to "varmints," both white and Negro.

The upsetting week began for Cordelle minutes after about 50 Negroes arrived at a swimming pool at a state park about seven miles from here.

Sheriff Ernie E. Posey, who investigated the incident, said a rock and bottle-throwing melee apparently broke out after one of the Negroes exchanged words with a white man.

Several acts of vandalism and violence followed the next night.

On Tuesday night, a gun battle flared between whites and Negroes at two service stations which face across a street. One is owned by a white man and the other by a Negro.

Before police and a dozen state troopers could break up the fray, scores of shots had been exchanged. No injuries were reported, officers said.

McMurray said four white men were arrested. Three were booked on charges of carrying firearms inside the city and the other for discharging a firearm within the city limits.

Southern Baptist Debate On Federal Aid Continues

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southern Baptists, torn between a need for money for their schools and keeping church and state apart, have reached the midway point of a two-year study on the question of federal aid. The conclusion so far: no conclusion.

It boils down to "how far separated you want church and state to be," said Franklin Owen of Lexington, Ky., president of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

As a Baptist newspaper editor put it: "We came with the answers and left with the questions."

The observations came during the first national conference of the Baptist Education Study Task. Federal aid was not the only question studied, but it developed the only real controversy. The 275 Baptist leaders at the conference agreed to wait until a similar meeting next June for any decision on federal aid. Even then, the decision will not be binding on any school.

Six of 22 study groups at the convention agreed to let each educational institution make its own decision.

This, however, apparently will fall short of effecting a solution, for several reasons:

1. Most of the 73 educational institutions, including 54 colleges and universities, which Southern Baptists own, are controlled by separate boards of trustees and owned by state Baptist conventions. The state conventions allow the colleges varying degrees of autonomy, but many Baptist college officials have complained that their state conventions exercise veto rights — particularly where federal aid is concerned.

2. The Southern Baptist Convention itself, which owns only its theological seminaries, voted at its recent national convention to oppose federal aid.

3. Where federal aid has been accepted by Baptist schools, it is no problem. Where it has not been — and is desired — it almost always has been because of opposition from the Southern or state conventions.

Dr. Felix Robb, who soon steps from his post of president of George Peabody College, a non-Baptist school, in Nashville to head of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, opened the conference with a plea for federal aid.

"If Baptists really believe in Christian higher education," he said, "they must double, triple and even quadruple financial support to their schools."

During the next year, this report will be discussed by nearly 10,000 Baptists meeting in 200 churches throughout the nation; in 24 regional seminars across the nation next January through March and, without doubt, on college campuses and in church congregations throughout the country.

The Southern Baptist Convention, the largest Protestant denomination in America, has 11.7 million members.

Journalism Chief Tells Plans at OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—William Hall takes over officially today as the new director of Ohio State University's journalism school, with a program for changes.

Hall, 43, came here from the University of Nebraska, where he held a similar post.

He said Thursday he had an immediate five-point program: Study remodeling and expansion of journalism facilities; study a recommendation for a more specialized graduate program; improvement of public affairs reporting by the student newspaper, the Lantern; meeting personally with each member of the journalism staff; touring the state to meet working newsmen.

Hall, whose selection was opposed by some journalism faculty members, said he would begin meeting with his teachers next Tuesday.

“OH SAY CAN YOU SEE”

FESTOONING FIRE FINGERS STREAK DOWN THE SKY WHILE SOFT JULY BREEZES STIR ACROSS UPTURNED FACES AND THE BAND PLAYS SOFTLY.

SUDDENLY I SEE BEYOND THE FRAMEWORK OF OUR CELEBRATION. I SEE FIREWORKS AND FLAGS. HARD-BOILED EGGS AND POTATO SALAD. A PARADE DOWN MAIN STREET. COTTON CANDY. ROLLER COASTERS. AND THE DANCE AT THE COUNTRY CLUB. I SEE A LITTLE BAND OF PEOPLE CROSSING THE OCEAN TO MAKE A NEW LIFE. A WOODSMAN HACKING A TRAIL WESTWARD. A MAN AND HIS WOMAN WORKING TOGETHER TO MAKE A HOME IN THE NEW WILDERNESS. I SEE ROWS OF GRAVES IN FRANCE. MARKING FALLEN DOUGHBOYS. FOUR YOUNG MEN RAISING A FLAG ON IWO JIMA. AND AN ASTRONAUT BLASTING OFF TO YET A NEW FRONTIER. I SEE A SWEET LAND OF LIBERTY.

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT THINGS THIS LAND STANDS FOR IS A MAN'S RIGHT TO WORSHIP GOD IN THE WAY HE WANTS. GO TO YOUR CHURCH AND TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS PRECIOUS HERITAGE.

COTTON CANDY, ROLLER COASTERS, AND THE DANCE AT THE COUNTRY CLUB. I SEE A LITTLE BAND OF PEOPLE CROSSING THE OCEAN TO MAKE A NEW LIFE. A WOODSMAN HACKING A TRAIL WESTWARD. A MAN AND HIS WOMAN WORKING TOGETHER TO MAKE A HOME IN THE NEW WILDERNESS. I SEE ROWS OF GRAVES IN FRANCE. MARKING FALLEN DOUGHBOYS. FOUR YOUNG MEN RAISING A FLAG ON IWO JIMA. DRIVING PADS — Merle Swank (right) surveys the new 24-tee driving range he has built in partnership with Robert Huffer. Standing on one of the concrete pads used as teeing areas with Swank is Ron Melvin. The recreational facility is scheduled to open soon.

Driving Range Community's Newest Recreation Facility

A 24-tee driving range is the latest addition to Pickaway County's recreational facilities. The range, northeast of Circleville on Route 188, has been built by Merle Swank, a nongolfing real estate agent and Circleville attorney Robert Huffer. "Interest in golfing in Pickaway County has increased 1,000 per cent in the past few years," Swank said in pointing out the need for such a facility. The new driving range is the first of its kind located in the area.

THE CONCRETE pads serving as the teeing area are constructed in tiers.

The golfer stands on a rubber mat, hitting the ball from a rubber tee inserted in another mat. The range will be fully lighted.

Although not completed, Swank expects to open the range for daylight use this weekend.

Most of the lights have been installed. They are new quartz type and will illuminate the entire range which covers about 13 acres of ground. The area will be seeded late this summer.

There is plenty of room for the long ball hitters. From tee to the back fence, it is 320 yards.

Swank has purchased special drivers, made with a magnesium alloy head for long wear.

THE FACILITY has drivers for men and women, in addition to short clubs for use by children.

Swank's son, Steve, will operate the range. Future plans call for the construction of a miniature golf course, according to the two partners.

Various driving contests will be scheduled in the future.

An exhibition of driving skill also is planned. Huffer and Swank have discussed the possibility with Tom Cassidy, local long hitting golfer on the professional tour.

Members of the Pickaway Country Club, where Cassidy was home pro until last year, remember him as one of the longest drivers in the game.

Four PGA golf tournaments will be held in Florida next March.

Jim Mogan started for the Vets but allowed three runs in the first frame and was relieved by Merle Thomas. He went 1-1-3, allowing seven runs. Bryce Brown came on and finished the third inning, being touched for six runs. Certain finally came on and finished, giving up one tally.

Dean Fausnaugh and Dennis Kull cracked triples for the winners. Rod Kasler had a double.

For VFW, Ronnie Haddox, Brown, Gregg White, and Marion Long had three sackers.

In Tri County Little League action Thursday, Clearcreek won its first game defeating Laurelville Boosters, 12-11.

In other games, Stoutsville downed Pickaway, 11-2, Salt Creek was swamped by Washington, 30-5, and Amanda defeated Laurelville Merchants, 13-0.

Steve Harbarger and Don Hutchison teamed up to hurl Clearcreek's initial winning effort. Harbarger fanned five, walked three and was touched for three hits. Hutchison allowed two hits, walked one, fanned five as he shutout the Boosters for the last three frames.

Terry Churchheus started for Laurelville, working the first four innings. He gave up eight runs, walked 10 and was touched for five hits. Don Bethel finished the game, allowing four runs on three walks and two hits.

Pirate Slugger Now Leading NL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Matty Alou has lost his pull, but he's pushed himself to the front of the National League batting race.

Alou extended his hitting streak to 13 straight games Thursday night, rapping three hits as the Pittsburgh Pirates walloped Houston 9-0 for their fifth consecutive victory.

Alou's performance shot his average up six points to .328 and gave him the batting lead over teammates Roberto Clemente and Willie Stargell, who are hitting .326.

Such a hitting height is rare for the 27-year-old center fielder, whose lifetime average is a mere .260. But there are two reasons for the dramatic change.

First, he's playing regularly, something he never did in his first six seasons in the majors with San Francisco. Second, Harry Walker is his manager.

Walker grabbed hold of Alou when spring training started and convinced him to stop trying to pull every pitch to right field. "Try it my way," Walker told the left-handed hitter. "Try it and see how easy it is when you get the feel of it. You don't have the power to become a pull hitter, and you'll lose hits trying. The wind blowing to right field at Candlestick Park spoiled you."

Alou unspoiled himself and started pushing the ball to left. That's when he started pushing his average up, too.

"I never hit to left field before in my life," the 160-pound Dominican said, "but now I like it. The Pirates do, too."

In the only other NL game, San Francisco defeated Atlanta 3-1 and Philadelphia edged New York 1-0.

In the American League, Baltimore crushed Kansas City 11-3, Cleveland blanked Minnesota 4-0 and Boston edged New York 3-2.

Alou singled to left field in the first inning and scored the only run. Vernon Law needed in his six-hit shutout. Gene Alley and Jim Pagliaroni each drove in two Pirate runs while Stargell, Bill Mazaroski and Donn Clendenon had two hits apiece.

San Francisco's Gaylord Perry scattered seven hits and struck out 12, gaining his 11th victory against only one defeat. Jim Hart brought San Francisco the victory with a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Felipe Alou, Matty's brother, giving him 101 for the season, had three hits for Atlanta, and making him the first in the majors to reach 100.

Dick Groat singled in a run with the bases loaded in the second inning, giving Philadelphia its second 1-0 victory over New York in three days.

Chris Short stopped the Mets on six hits and struck out 13.

He outdueled Bob Shaw, who was seeking his fifth victory in as many starts since the Mets acquired him from San Francisco.

Goldberg Likes U.N. Post, Denies Seeking Rusk's Job

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — As he nears the end of his first year as U.S. chief delegate to the United Nations, Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg says he is ready to remain in the post "as long as the President wants me to stay."

In a half-hour interview, he brushed aside reports that he is unhappy in his job and that he is feuding with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He expressed hope that after 11 months in office he is doing a useful job.

He hinted that he sometimes disagrees with Rusk, but denied that he wants Rusk's job or any other. He declined comment on the U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong oil facilities.

A U.S. delegation spokesman told correspondents published reports "of Mr. Goldberg's happiness or unhappiness I would characterize as hogwash." The reports said Goldberg is unhappy because Rusk is against scaling down the Vietnamese war and is keeping U.N. Secretary-General U Thant from President Johnson.

Goldberg himself did not reply directly when asked if he regretted he had left the Supreme Court to come here, saying: "Once I make a decision, I make a decision. It's kind of futile to look back. You have to look forward in life.

"I'm a grown man. I've made a decision and I'm busy engaged in what I'm doing now."

He said he still feels as he did last July 20, when he accepted the U.N. post and told White House reporters his Supreme Court service would always be "the most enjoyable experience" of his life.

"I took this job not to enjoy myself," he went on. "I took this because I thought it was a duty assignment for our country. I still think so. I haven't changed my mind. Anything insinuating to the contrary is not well founded."

As to the reports he was displeased with Rusk, Goldberg declared: "I have no feud with the secretary of state. I express myself. He expresses himself. That's normal in the government. But we are very good friends. We have the most amicable and congenial relations."

"I also have no desire or ambition to become secretary of state or hold any other office other than the one I now hold."

"I entered upon it to help the country. Whether I am succeeding in helping the country is not for me but for others to judge. I hope I am."

Marketmen, Oilers Win LL Contests

Wards Market vaulted into a deadlock for third place in the Little League minors Thursday by edging Rotary, 10-8. Circleville Oil topped Savings Bank, 8-6.

IOOF still owns the league lead on the strength of seven wins in a row. Bline Ribbon Dairy stands 5-2 while close behind are Second National Bank, First National Bank and Wards.

The Marketmen scored early, tallying four in the first and five in the second. Rotary tallied one in the fourth, five in the fifth and two in the last.

Doug Spangler went all the way for the winners although he walked 14, he fanned 16 and allowed only three hits. Gary Young and Dan Graham split duties for the losers, scattering seven hits.

BOTH teams had a homerun as Roger Karr connected for the winners and William Taylor for the losers. Tim Strawser had a double for Wards.

Circleville Oil's big punch came in the fourth inning when they tallied five. Single runs in the first, third and fifth helped produce the win.

Derek Morris earned the win for the Oilers. In going the distance, he walked six fanned six and allowed six hits.

Ken Certain, hurling for the Bankers, allowed eight bases on balls, struck out nine and scattered six hits.

Morris helped his own cause by tagging a homer. Teammate Steve Watters also chipped in a four-bagger. Terry Hicks clouted a triple for the Bankers and Dannie Crawford had a double.

Junior Golf Tournament Finals Due

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Yank Heisler of Ravenna, Ohio's two-time high school champion, battled Ralph Colla of Youngstown today for the Mid-America Junior Golf Tournament title.

Both registered a pair of victories Thursday and vaulted into today's 36-hole finale over the Possum Run course.

Heisler got hot in a semi-final match and breezed to a 3 and 2 triumph over Greg Poston of Logan, but Colla had to go 26 holes before disposing of Terry Cramond of Lancaster, 1-up.

Heisler trailed by two holes after six but got even at nine and won the first four holes after the turn to sideline Poston.

Earlier in the day, Heisler whipped Don Fobes of Cuyahoga Falls, 3 and 2; Colla clipped Bruce Harrison of Zanesville, 2 and 1; Poston downed Dave Baker of Belpre, 2 and 1, and Cramond defeated Dave Rasley of Dayton, 1-up.

Mickey Sets Pace in U.S. Ladies' Open

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Mickey Wright, golf's female all-time top money winner, is back on her game and seemingly was poised today to capture an unprecedented fifth U.S. Women's Open crown.

Others in a field of 52 pros and 47 amateurs mainly were troubled Thursday by Hazeltine National Golf Club's tricky and tough course. But Miss Wright moved into the second round of the $20,000 blue ribbon tourney owning the only par-breaking effort, a one-under-par 71 posted in the opening round.

That gave Mickey, 31, playing in her 11th Open, a two-stroke lead over defending champion Carol Mann, who putted brilliantly for her opening 73.

Hazeltine's stern 6,325-yard layout, built in 1962 in hopes of landing the 1969 National Men's Open, left current money leader Kathy Whitworth and former Women's Open champions Betsy Rawls, Mrs. Muriel Lindstrom, Patty Berg and Louise Suggs all floundering at 80 or worse.

Beside the Misses Wright and Mann, the only other of seven contending former champions to break 80 was Mary Mills, 1963 winner, eight strokes off the pace with a 79.

Goldberg Likes U.N. Post, Denies Seeking Rusk's Job

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — As he nears the end of his first year as U.S. chief delegate to the United Nations, Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg says he is ready to remain in the post "as long as the President wants me to stay."

In a half-hour interview, he brushed aside reports that he is unhappy in his job and that he is feuding with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He expressed hope that after 11 months in office he is doing a useful job.

He hinted that he sometimes disagrees with Rusk, but denied that he wants Rusk's job or any other. He declined comment on the U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong oil facilities.

A U.S. delegation spokesman told correspondents published reports "of Mr. Goldberg's happiness or unhappiness I would characterize as hogwash." The reports said Goldberg is unhappy because Rusk is against scaling down the Vietnamese war and is keeping U.N. Secretary-General U Thant from President Johnson.

Goldberg himself did not reply directly when asked if he regretted he had left the Supreme Court to come here, saying: "Once I make a decision, I make a decision. It's kind of futile to look back. You have to look forward in life."

"I'm a grown man, I've made a decision and I'm busily engaged in what I'm doing now."

He said he still feels as he did last July 20, when he accepted the U.N. post and told White House reporters his Supreme Court service would always be "the most enjoyable experience" of his life.

"I took this job not to enjoy myself," he went on. "I took this because I thought it was a duty assignment for our country. I still think so. I haven't changed my mind. Anything insinuating to the contrary is not well founded."

As to the reports he was displeased with Rusk, Goldberg declared: "I have no feud with the secretary of state. I express myself. He expresses himself. That's normal in the government. But we are very good friends. We have the most amicable and congenial relations."

"I also have no desire or ambition to become secretary of state or hold any other office other than the one I now hold."

"I entered upon it to help the country. Whether I am succeeding in helping the country is not for me but for others to judge. I hope I am."

Marketmen, Oilers Win LL Contests

Wards Market vaulted into a deadlock for third place in the Little League minors Thursday by edging Rotary, 10-8. Circleville Oil topped Savings Bank, 8-6.

IOOF still owns the league lead on the strength of seven wins in a row. Blue Ribbon Dairy stands 5-2 while close behind are Second National Bank, First National Bank and Wards.

The Marketmen scored early, tallying four in the first and five in the second. Rotary tallied one in the fourth, five in the fifth and two in the last.

Doug Spangler went all the way for the winners although he walked 14, he fanned 16 and allowed only three hits. Gary Young and Dan Graham split duties for the losers, scattering seven hits.

BOTH teams had a homerun as Roger Karr connected for the winners and William Taylor for the losers. Tim Strawser had a double for Wards.

Circleville Oil's big punch came in the fourth inning when they tallied five. Single runs in the first, third and fifth helped produce the win.

Derek Morris earned the win for the Oilers. In going the distance, he walked six fanned six and allowed six hits.

Ken Certain, hurling for the Bankers, allowed eight bases on balls, struck out nine and scattered six hits.

Morris helped his own cause by tagging a homer. Teammate Steve Watters also chipped in a four-bagger. Terry Hicks clouted a triple for the Bankers and Dannie Crawford had a double.

Mickey Sets Pace in U.S. Ladies' Open

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Mickey Wright, golf's female all-time top money winner, is back on her game and seemingly was poised today to capture an unprecedented fifth U.S. Women's Open crown.

Others in a field of 52 pros and 47 amateurs mainly were troubled Thursday by Hazeltine National Golf Club's tricky and tough course. But Miss Wright moved into the second round of the $20,000 blue ribbon tourney owning the only par-breaking effort, a one-under-par 71 posted in the opening round.

That gave Mickey, 31, playing in her 11th Open, a two-stroke lead over defending champion Carol Mann, who putted brilliantly for her opening 73.

Hazeltine's stern 6,325-yard layout, built in 1962 in hopes of landing the 1969 National Men's Open, left current money leader Kathy Whitworth and former Women's Open champions Betsy Rawls, Mrs. Muriel Lindstrom, Patty Berg and Louise Suggs all floundering at 80 or worse.

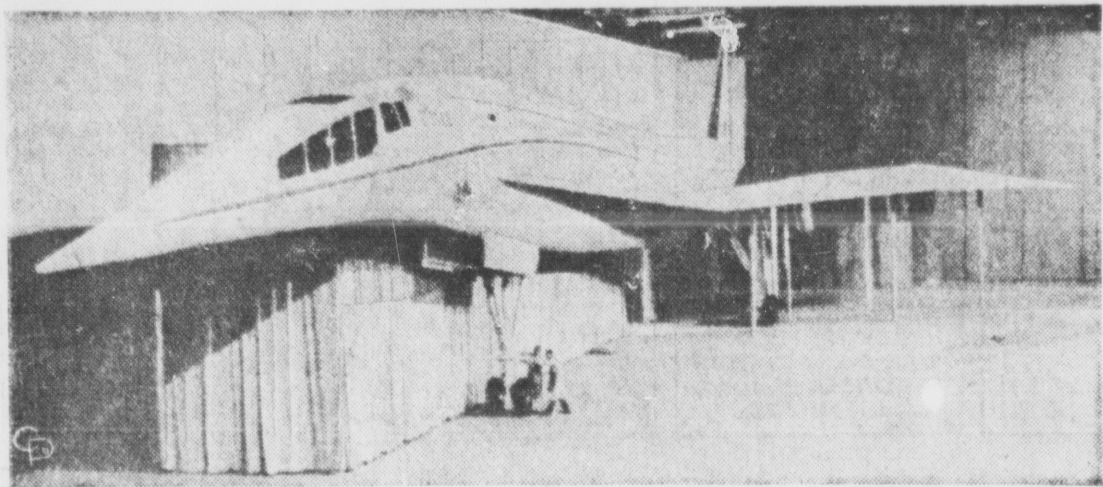

Beside the Misses Wright and Mann, the only other of seven contending former champions to break 80 was Mary Mills, 1963 winner, eight strokes off the pace with a 79.

LONG AS A FOOTBALL FIELD—This full-scale model of a projected Supersonic Transport (SST) was unveiled by the Lockheed-California Company in Burbank, Calif. Designed to fly at 1,800 miles an hour, the plane is as long as a football field. It is hoped the SST will compete for world air supremacy in the 1970s against the British-French Concorde.

IRS Activity Still Heavy Even After Each April 15

EDITOR'S NOTE — Many may think the work routine of Internal Revenue Service employees is greatly decreased after income tax returns are filed each April 15. Not so, say IRS officials. The story below is a brief rundown of year-round functions.

Have you ever wondered what happens in federal tax offices after April 15? If so then chances are you've never had to answer a question about a return you've filed.

Taxpayers who have had this experience know that one of the many full time year-round jobs of the Internal Revenue Service is to check the accuracy of tax returns.

Last year more than 3.5 million returns were audited, that is, the taxpayers were asked to produce records, supply more information or otherwise back up items on their tax returns. Many were able to do this by mail, others visited IRS offices and, in some instances, were visited in their home or place of business by a tax agent.

The detailed examination of these returns revealed that taxpayers had over-paid as well as underpaid their tax.

About $145 million was paid back to 440,000 taxpayers who had made errors in interpreting the law. A total of $2.7 billion, however, was assessed in additional taxes as a result of the examination program.

Although a relatively small percentage of returns gets this kind of attention, every return is checked for mathematical accuracy. Surprising as it may seem, arithmetic errors turned up on nearly four million returns last year. Almost half of these resulted in the payment of too much tax.

Some $94 million was returned to 1.9 million taxpayers in 1965 stemming from mistakes in arithmetic which IRS discovered. On the other hand, just under two million taxpayers were notified of additional tax due because of such errors discovered on their returns. This amounted to $194 million.

Besides being mathematically verified, returns are automatically checked on other key points. These include whether certain items of income have been reported, if money is owed for a prior year or for another type of tax, and if more than one request for a refund has been filed.

Generally speaking, the selection of returns for audit is based upon carefully developed criteria designed to identify those returns where the greatest chance of error exists. In addition, some are selected at random so that no class of returns is assured of exemption from audit.

Another basis for selection of returns for audit has to do with refunds. If particularly large amounts are claimed in deductions or there are other items which appear to need verification then the return is given a close look before a refund check is issued.

On most of these returns, IRS wants to make sure that the taxpayer actually made the contributions he claims, or paid the doctor's bills, or suffered the casualty loss he said he did. Good records — cancelled checks, paid bills and receipts will usually lead to the acceptance of the return as filed.

In some cases, however, it is not a question of whether the bill was actually paid but whether the expense was deductible under the law. It should be kept in mind that IRS does not make the law but is responsible for administering it as passed by Congress.

Surprisingly few of the returns audited each year lead to disputes that cannot be settled without going to court. Only about 7,000 cases or less than one-fourth of 1 percent of the 3-million-plus returns audited, reach the court stage.

Dependency exemptions are the most frequent subject of disagreement between the taxpayer and the IRS. To qualify for a dependency exemption, the law sets specific requirements and asks for substantiation of claims.

The question of who is entitled to an exemption occurs most frequently in the case of children of divorced parents. Because the parents are living apart, it is often difficult to establish which one provided more than one-half the support required of each child. Since two people obviously cannot provide more than half the support, the Revenue Service must ask each of these taxpayers to produce records that will support their claim.

The underlying objective of the entire audit program is to bolster the voluntary compliance tax system. Audits and other enforcement actions help assure all taxpayers that the foolish few who flaunt the tax laws are caught and that each taxpayer pays just his fair share of taxes — no more and no less.

In recent years, about 97 percent of federal tax revenues have come from what has been voluntarily paid by taxpayers and through withholding. The examination of returns and other enforcement actions account for the remaining 3 percent of revenue.

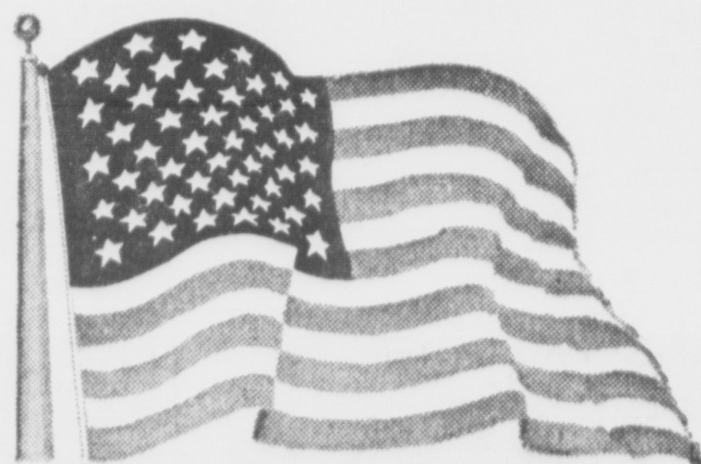

Other Revenue Service tasks that stretch from one April 15 to the next are issuing refund checks; providing information requested by taxpayers; handling quarterly estimated income, employment, business and excise tax returns, recording an analyzing information on automatic data processing tapes, and doing hundreds of other jobs from turning tax monies over to the U. S. Treasury to checking on tax delinquents and investigating racketeers.

3 Children Slain in Duplicated Tragedy

FAIRFIELD, Maine (AP) — Three young children were found drowned in their rural home Thursday, in what was almost a duplication of a tragedy 12 years ago when their mother was committed in the drowning of her first three children.

Police said they would seek a murder warrant today against the mother, Constance Fisher, 37.

The bodies were found by the father, Carl Fisher, 45, when he came home from work. In March 1954, he had come home from work, from the same job, to find the first three children dead.

Both times he found his wife unconscious. The first time the children were 6 years, 4 years, and 11 months old. This time, the children were 6 years, 4 years and 9 months old.

Mrs. Fisher was taken to Thayer Hospital in Waterville Thursday night, where she regained consciousness. A hospital spokesman said she appeared to be in good condition. She was under police guard.

Police Chief Frederick Gould said three pill boxes were found empty Thursday. He said Mrs. Fisher had taken an overdose of medication. He also said a note was found, but did not disclose its contents.

Twelve years ago, Mrs. Fisher attempted suicide, officials said, by drinking hair shampoo. She left a note then, saying she had killed the children because "God told me to do it," and saying, "They are in heaven, safe from evil."

She was charged with murder then and committed to the State Hospital in Augusta. A grand jury refused to indict her after the hospital reported she was insane.

A hospital spokesman said today that Mrs. Fisher was released March 6, 1959, and that there apparently was no indication of any potential recurrence of her illness.

New School Chief Sworn

Crusade Launched To Fulfill Dream

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new superintendent of schools called today for a crusade to fit the state into the "American dream of education."

Martin Essex, 58-year-old former Akron school superintendent, said at a swearing-in ceremony that "ours is the scientific age, and Ohio must not lag behind."

Essex urged development of an education plan to meet needs of all types of students. He spoke of plans to bring together educational leaders and make maximum use of federal funds.

The new superintendent took the oath of office from William D. Radcliff, of Circleville, administrative assistant for the Ohio Supreme Court. Essex succeeds E. E. Holt, who resigned.

Essex has advocated a five-point program for Ohio schools, including:

Asking state school officials to submit possible plans for work in their special fields.

Developing a task force of educators and other groups to evaluate needs of Ohio schools.

Cooperating fully with a state school board group studying present education "dimensions."

Seeking advice and utilizing available research material for other organizations concerned with the interests of Ohio schools.

Working closely with legislative and executive of the state government.

Essex is a graduate of Ohio State University. Before going to Akron, he was superintendent of schools in Middleport, East Liverpool and Lakewood, and was also head of schools in Fernwood, Mich.

Have you ever wondered what happens in federal tax offices after April 15? If so then chances are you've never had to answer a question about a return you've filed.

Taxpayers who have had this experience know that one of the many full time year-round jobs of the Internal Revenue Service is to check the accuracy of tax returns.

Last year more than 3.5 million returns were audited, that is, the taxpayers were asked to produce records, supply more information or otherwise back up items on their tax returns. Many were able to do this by mail, others visited IRS offices and, in some instances, were visited in their home or place of business by a tax agent.

The detailed examination of these returns revealed that taxpayers had over-paid as well as underpaid their tax.

About $145 million was paid back to 440,000 taxpayers who had made errors in interpreting the law. A total of $2.7 billion, however, was assessed in additional taxes as a result of the examination program.

Although a relatively small percentage of returns gets this kind of attention, every return is checked for mathematical accuracy. Surprising as it may seem, arithmetic errors turned up on nearly four million returns last year. Almost half of these resulted in the payment of too much tax.

Some $94 million was returned to 1.9 million taxpayers in 1965 stemming from mistakes in arithmetic which IRS discovered. On the other hand, just under two million taxpayers were notified of additional tax due because of such errors discovered on their returns. This amounted to $194 million.

Besides being mathematically verified, returns are automatically checked on other key points. These include whether certain items of income have been reported, if money is owed for a prior year or for another type of tax, and if more than one request for a refund has been filed.

Generally speaking, the selection of returns for audit is based upon carefully developed criteria designed to identify those returns where the greatest chance of error exists. In addition, some are selected at random so that no class of returns is assured of exemption from audit.

Another basis for selection of returns for audit has to do with refunds. If particularly large amounts are claimed in deductions or there are other items which appear to need verification then the return is given a close look before a refund check is issued.

On most of these returns, IRS wants to make sure that the taxpayer actually made the contributions he claims, or paid the doctor's bills, or suffered the casualty loss he said he did. Good records — cancelled checks, paid bills and receipts will usually lead to the acceptance of the return as filed.

In some cases, however, it is not a question of whether the bill was actually paid but whether the expense was deductible under the law. It should be kept in mind that IRS does not make the law but is responsible for administering it as passed by Congress.

Surprisingly few of the returns audited each year lead to disputes that cannot be settled without going to court. Only about 7,000 cases or less than one-fourth of 1 percent of the 3-million-plus returns audited, reach the court stage.

Dependency exemptions are the most frequent subject of disagreement between the taxpayer and the IRS. To qualify for a dependency exemption, the law sets specific requirements and asks for substantiation of claims.

The question of who is entitled to an exemption occurs most frequently in the case of children of divorced parents. Because the parents are living apart, it is often difficult to establish which one provided more than one-half the support required of each child. Since two people obviously cannot provide more than half the support, the Revenue Service must ask each of these taxpayers to produce records that will support their claim.

The underlying objective of the entire audit program is to bolster the voluntary compliance tax system. Audits and other enforcement actions help assure all taxpayers that the foolish few who flaunt the tax laws are caught and that each taxpayer pays just his fair share of taxes — no more and no less.

In recent years, about 97 per cent of federal tax revenues have come from what has been voluntarily paid by taxpayers and through withholding. The examination of returns and other enforcement actions account for the remaining 3 per cent of revenue.

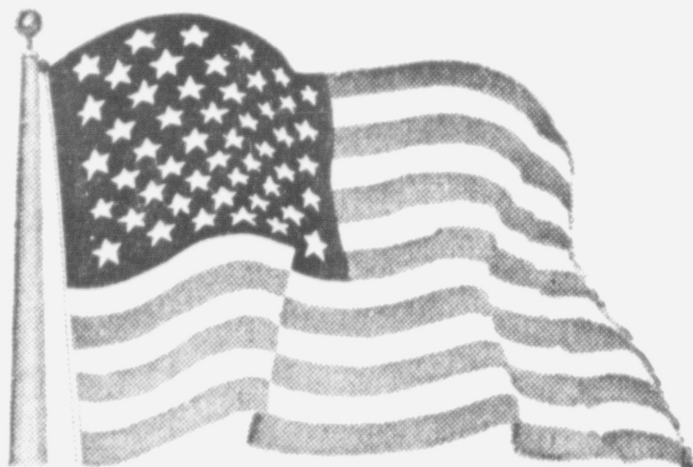

Other Revenue Service tasks that stretch from one April 15 to the next are issuing refund checks, providing information requested by taxpayers, handling quarterly estimated income, employment, business and excise tax returns, recording an analyzing information on automatic data processing tapes, and doing hundreds of other jobs from turning tax monies over to the U. S. Treasury to checking on tax delinquents and investigating racketeers.

3 Children Slain in Duplicated Tragedy

FAIRFIELD, Maine (AP) — Three young children were found drowned in their rural home Thursday, in what was almost a duplication of a tragedy 12 years ago when their mother was committed in the drowning of her first three children.

Police said they would seek a murder warrant today against the mother, Constance Fisher, 37.

The bodies were found by the father, Carl Fisher, 45, when he came home from work. In March 1954, he had come home from work, from the same job, to find the first three children dead.

Both times he found his wife unconscious. The first time the children were 6 years, 4 years, and 11 months old. This time, the children were 6 years, 4 years and 9 months old.

Mrs. Fisher was taken to Thayer Hospital in Waterville Thursday night, where she regained consciousness. A hospital spokesman said she appeared to be in good condition. She was under police guard.

Police Chief Frederick Gould said three pill boxes were found empty Thursday. He said Mrs. Fisher had taken an overdose of medication. He also said a note was found, but did not disclose its contents.

Twelve years ago, Mrs. Fisher attempted suicide, officials said, by drinking hair shampoo. She left a note then, saying she had killed the children because "God told me to do it," and saying, "They are in heaven, safe from evil."

She was charged with murder then and committed to the State Hospital in Augusta. A grand jury refused to indict her after the hospital reported she was insane.

A hospital spokesman said today that Mrs. Fisher was released March 6, 1959, and that there apparently was no indication of any potential recurrence of her illness.

Crusade Launched To Fulfill Dream

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new superintendent of schools called today for a crusade to fit the state into the "American dream of education."

Martin Essex, 38-year-old former Akron school superintendent, said at awarding ceremonies that "ours is the scientific age, and Ohio must not lag behind."

Essex urged development of an education plan to meet needs of all types of students. He spoke of plans to bring together educational leaders and make maximum use of federal funds.

The new superintendent took the oath of office from William D. Radcliff, of Circleville, administrative assistant for the Ohio Supreme Court. Essex succeeds E. E. Holt, who resigned.

Essex has advocated a five-point program for Ohio schools, including:

Asking state school officials to submit possible plans for work in their special fields.

Developing a task force of educators and other groups to evaluate needs of Ohio schools.

Cooperating fully with a state school board group studying present education "dimensions."

Seeking advice and utilizing available research material for other organizations concerned with the interests of Ohio schools.

Working closely with legislative and executive of the state government.

Essex is a graduate of Ohio State University. Before going to Akron, he was superintendent of schools in Middleport, East Liverpool and Lakewood, and was also head of schools in Fernwood, Mich.
